About This Game

Have you tried out other music learning aids before? You can review your knowledge of notes, intervals, chords and scales. Sometimes they even have a small number of songs for you to guess the key of. That's all fine and dandy, but wouldn't you like to get a completely original and fresh piece of music every time? Well, now you can!

With Pitch Perfect Ear Training, you get the most comprehensive music learning aid. Let's review its features:

- A Pitch, Chord, Interval, Scale and Key of a Piece Quiz;

- Proprietary custom music writing algorithm. It writes a melody in a single key and also accompaniment;

- Panning options for both channels;

- Customizable music instruments. Choose any of the 128 MIDI standard instrument samples to make your learning even more fun;

- Quiz and Review mode: test your knowledge or go through the available pitches, intervals, chords and scales;

- You can also export the Music Piece to a MIDI file during your quiz.

Its a straight forward game, I just wish there was a button to replay the sound.. It's pretty plain like unflavored oatmeal because it does not have any creative means to make the training fun and engaging like how an educational game should be. It even lacks basic lessons covering pitch and anything else that relates to the subject. I got it in hopes to learn about some stuff I never got taught in music classes and left not learning anything.

Don't waste your time and money on this. I suggest you watch some videos on Youtube that explains pitches and the other subjects. There are also long videos that is just a singular pitch that you can use to train your ears with.. Easy for those who have perfect pitch, but still very fun, since you can learn all the names of scales and chords, and play with tons of different instruments. For the "pitch guessing" mode I suggest an option with multiple notes played at the same time, with the option to choose between different instruments for each note. The "scale guessing" mode is fine and the "key guessing" is very fun, but the last chord\/note that is played twice at the end of each algorithm generated song makes the task really easy since it turns it on a simple "key guessing" mode. It should be removed. Overall the game is very fun and has a lot a value for those who want to test the ears while learning the names of chords, scales and even get inspired with some randomly generated theme you can hear (and maybe have a cool idea for a song?). We need more games like this on Steam (games that test perception). I recommend this one, for musicians or ordinary people who just want to learn more about how music is built.

Ps: I didn't know there was a "Blues Scale", but when I first listened to it, I immediately thought: "This is blues!" – a few seconds later, there was the option to select. Really cool :)
